The pace of our steps has quickened, small talks are getting shorter and snappier, each meal takes about what it takes for someone preparing for a competitive eating contest, and our brains have been working overtime, uncertain of where the energy is coming from – Coffee! Yes, that magical drink that contains all the calories we need and then some. We are making a mad dash toward the finish line – commencement dates are set in stone and deadlines for papers and projects can’t be negotiated – the end is near and we are not going to slow down until we come out of the tunnel. We’ve run this race before. However, it feels different this time around. We all have been burdened with unanticipated assaults on our body, mind, and spirit that required us to respond in one way or another to the actions and rhetoric of the current U.S. administration. Here are five incidents that required emotional labor and increased my stress level over this semester.

Women’s March on January 21st in response to the current administration’s willingness to compromise women’s health, value, and dignity. To see friends and colleagues fly to Washington D.C. to participate in the march was indeed inspirational.

March for Science on April 22nd in protest over politicians and policy makers ignoring or denying the validity of scientific facts in their decisions. One of the signs I saw on the internet said, “I can’t believe I’m actually defending facts!”

The GTU came up with its solidarity statement in order to reiterate its resolve to stand with those who are threatened by the new political and cultural climate (http://gtu.edu/news/gtu-solidarity-statement). Moreover, the Student Advisory Committee has been working all semester to roll out a welcoming campaign in response to Executive Order 13769 and then Executive Order 13780.

The Council of Deans is working on a statement in response to the proposed budget cuts to national endowments and libraries that certainly will have negative ramifications for education.

Finally, the escalating tension between North Korea and the United States has become a cause of concern and anxiety, especially among South Korean students at GTU. Kim Jung Un’s outrageous rhetoric and political maneuvers have been repeatedly played before, by his father before him, and by his grandfather before his father. Nothing is new here. What’s different in this hackneyed drama is our President Trump. He wants to take on the young dictator of an extremely impoverished nation (population: 25 million; income per capita: $1,800). The so-called Dear Leader couldn’t be happier to have President Trump’s attention and to be perceived as a worthy opponent of the most powerful nation in the world. North Koreans have nothing to lose; their conditions can’t get any worse. Americans have little to lose; the carnage will occur about 7,000 miles from Washington DC. It’s South Koreans who have most to lose and will live in fear and anxiety as long as the tension remains. Who cares? We care and, therefore, we carry our emotional and spiritual burden as we walk toward our next task.

GTU Commencement

The GTU Commencement is May 11 at 4pm in the PLTS Chapel. A reception follows the ceremony outside the Chapel. Common MA and Doctoral students planning on participating in the GTU Commencement Ceremony should report to Giesy Hall for robing and procession instructions by 3:15pm. Faculty are asked to report to Giesy Hall by 3:30pm. Contact Kathleen Kook, GTU Dean of Students, kkook@gtu.edu, 510-649-2464 for information. Please carpool and ask your guests to carpool. There is a parking lot, AND, it can be a challenge to fit all of our vehicles.
GTU STUDENT TRAVEL GRANT Cycle #1
DEADLINE: Sept 15, 2017
Mark your calendar! The first cycle deadline to compete for a GTU Student Travel Grant is Friday, September 15, 2017 at 5pm in the GTU Dean’s Office. GTU doctoral students who are presenting papers at the AAR and SBL Annual Meetings along with other comparable national conferences and meetings from July 1, 2017 through January 31, 2018 are eligible to apply for the first cycle. Additionally, the GTU Student Travel Grant Application form must accompany supporting materials (proof of acceptance to conferences and paper abstract). It is available through the GTU Dean’s Office and the GTU webpage. For more information, please consult the 2016 Doctoral Program Handbook (p. 93-94), or email amunoz@gtu.edu.

CHAN PRIZE COMPETITION DEADLINE: SEPT. 15, 2017
Students interested in submitting papers for the Fall 2017 Chan Prize Essay contest must do so by Friday, September 15, 2017 at 5pm in the GTU Dean’s Office. This year’s Chan competition purpose is to reward the thoughtful, creative work of students who are seeking authentically to bring together theological (including ethical, Biblical, constructive) reflection on the topic of “Identity and Practice across Religious Boundaries: exploring a particular concept, theme, or practice in two or more religions.” For more detail on the criteria of the essay competition, please see the 2016 Doctoral Program Handbook (p. 93) —there is no application form.

COURSE DESIGN AND MOODLE WORKSHOPS

Join Dr. Kyle Schiefelbein-Guerrero for two remaining course design workshops this spring in the Collaborative Learning Space (formerly the Teaching Lab). Each workshop occurs on Monday and is repeated on Friday.

Student Assessment with Quizzes
Quizzes are still a popular way of assessing students’ progress throughout a course. Quizzes can also provide opportunities to teach students interactively through various types of feedback. This workshop looks at Moodle’s Quiz module to design traditional and developmental quizzes.

Monday, May 1, 3:00 to 4:30 pm
Friday, May 5, 10:00 to 11:30 am

Creating Engaging Presentations
Presentations (traditional lectures, PowerPoints, Prezis, interactive media) serve a central role in our courses. In this workshop, participants will look at presentations in both the residential and online environment by creating storyboards to tell your topic’s “story.”

Monday, May 8, 3:00 to 4:30 pm
Friday, May 12, 10:00 to 11:30 am

If you are unable to attend these or the previous workshops, don’t worry! They will be repeated again in the fall semester. If you have a workshop request, please e-mail Kyle at kschiefelbein@gtu.edu

If you are unable to attend these or the previous workshops, don’t worry! They will be repeated again in the fall semester. If you have a workshop request, please e-mail Kyle at kschiefelbein@gtu.edu

Watch your e-mail for training opportunities this summer. Contact Kyle if you would like any course design assistance or resources.
The Institute of Buddhist Studies is happy to announce the return of its annual graduate symposium in the fall of 2017.

Mass Meditation: Practices and Discourses in Contemporary Global Buddhism
October 6th, 2017—Institute of Buddhist Studies
Berkeley, California

This conference will focus on the phenomenon of mass meditation (e.g., lay meditation practices, mindfulness, secularization) in contemporary global Buddhism. Of particular focus will be the means by which Buddhist meditation is understood and promoted in various contexts. We welcome submissions that consider how meditation has gained an ambivalent relationship to Buddhism—sometimes being promoted as a “spiritual technology” not connected to any particular tradition, sometimes as the condition sine qua non for Buddhist identity and the only practice recommended by the Buddha.

Topics include but are not limited to: the origins and popularization of lay meditation practices in Burma, Thailand and Sri Lanka; the Vipassanā (Insight) and Mindfulness movements in North America, Europe, and Asia; meditation practice and the construction of Buddhist identity or subjectivity; the “mystification” of meditation in promotional literature; the use of scientific language to justify and promote meditation both within and beyond Buddhist contexts.

Dr. Erik Braun, Associate Professor of Religious Studies at the University of Virginia and author of The Birth of Insight (winner of the 2014 Toshihide Numata Book Award in Buddhism), will serve as the symposium’s keynote speaker.

Graduate students at any stage of their program are encouraged to submit paper proposals. Please send abstracts of no more than 500 words to Thomas Calobrisi (tcalobrisi@ses.gtu.edu). The deadline for submission is July 15, 2017. Applicants will be notified about their submission by August 15, 2017.

Limited travel funds may be available; low-cost housing is available on site at the Jodo Shinshu Center.
