Requirement Reminder: In addition to the Women's Studies in Religion Seminar, taught once each academic year, certificate students must successfully complete three additional 3.0 unit course (total of 9.0 units) at the GTU or UC Berkeley in which the experiences of women, women-centered theologies, or womanist/feminist/mujerista theories form a significant component. Two of these course must also emphasize religious studies or theology. Special reading courses that cover these topics may also be counted toward the certificate. Course requirements should be tailored to the student's degree level. A course may also be acceptable if the student's final paper/project is on a gender topic. If a student decides to take advantage of this option, s/he must submit the paper with their requirements checklist.
